

REMARKS

Claims 33-38 are in the case. In this Amendment, the Title has been changed, an Abstract is submitted and new claims have been submitted replacing original claims 1-32. Reconsideration of the amended application is respectfully requested.

Applicants note that the Examiner has requested that they review the specification for possible minor errors, and this will be done promptly upon the indication of allowable subject matter.

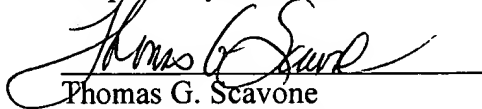

New claims 33-38 are all directed to a small, handheld and portable device for controlling the operations of TVs and other media presentation appliances. The claimed remote control has a display and communications systems that operate independently of the TV display broadcast network. In addition, the remote control display has content and is timed to relate, for example simultaneously, with the programming on the TV. This can occur in real time even in circumstances where live events, for example a sporting contest, are being televised.

Neither Goldstein nor any of the other prior art of record has the structure and functionality of the invention as now claimed, and an early allowance is requested.
